

After Hours Book Excerpt

Ebony Kincaid is your typical workaholic trying desperately to prove herself to her boss. Frustration easily settles in as she works fifty hours a week and still can't get ahead of the game. All while watching other women in the company sleep their way to the top.

She is persuaded by her devoted friend Steve to set a trap for her womanizing boss. Her loyal companion, Steve, convinces her to expose her boss for the philandering pig he is in order for her to get the promotion she feels she deserves. Never could she have imagined falling in love with her boss.

Love is only the beginning of her ordeal. She will have to face a dark road of lies, deceit and racism to find the happiness she desires.
