Quote From Author:

“I was born in Wallasey, on the Wirral, in a modest little terrace house which stood on a busy road. My early life was full of adventure, getting up to all sorts of mad antics, some of which got me into quite a lot of trouble with the authorities...but we won't go into that! School, for me, was a total drag. I hated every minute of it. A natural rebel, I simply refused to do anything. I caused my poor parents endless sleepless nights of worry! My teachers hated me, I'm sure! Well, there were a couple - Mr. Davies was a great teacher, and he actually had great faith in me as a writer, poet and artist! I'll always have very fond memories of him, but I doubt if he remembers me.

With no qualifications, I went from one dead-end job to the next. I met some great people and had some wild times, but I never felt as if I was doing anything really worthwhile. I traveled a lot, living in Israel and Germany for a while. Everywhere I went I met people and saw places which fired my imagination. All of these wonderful memories have helped me develop my skills as a writer - so my thanks to every single one of you who have blessed my life!

Finally I woke up. At 29 years of age, I returned to school. I managed to pass my GCEs, then the following year I did my 'A' levels. A world of opportunity was now open to me, and I went to Teacher Training College in Liverpool and qualified four years later.

Married, with a young family, my work took me to some wonderful places - Cornwall, Alderney, Suffolk. Every step of the way I would file away little snippets of information to use in future stories. Because, all the time, I was determined to become a writer.

I moved to Spain about two years ago, looking to start a new life in the Sun! I'd been working as a teacher in the UK for about 16 years. Things had changed quite a lot, paperwork and admin were dominating every waking moment. Every day there was a new 'initiative' to incorporate, and this meant more plans to write down and submit, projections to make, outcomes to consider...it was just too much. Spain seemed to offer the hope of me returning to what I love most in my work - teaching!

Spain has given me not only a great working environment, it has also given me the time to concentrate on my other great passion - writing!

Books In Sync Is Featuring: The Pawnbroker by Glenn Stuart

Another sinister tale of mystery and suspense from the pen of that 'Master of Mystery', Glenn Stuart. With a background set amongst narrow, dark twisting streets covered in grime and decay, this horror story for young adults is a grisly tale based on the murder of two young boys which took place back in the late eighteen sixties. In those days - when poverty was rife with many families having to share dank dark accommodation, children as young as five or six forced out to work to keep hunger at bay, and life for many a matter of merely existing from day to day - danger and death lurked around every corner. Amongst this squalor, The Pawnbroker plied his trade; a man of evil temper who craved that one item which would bring him the comforts and luxury he so coveted. Switching to the present-day, two teenage boys find themselves exploring an old abandoned Tudor-style house within which is an eerie atmosphere which fills the boys with a growing sense of dread. Something sinister is in the air as the past begins to haunt them and so begins this tale of dark, malevolent, unnatural forces, which is guaranteed to keep the reader on the edge of their seat until the very last page. "The Pawnbroker" follows "Cold Hell in Darley Dene"; "The Accursed Dawn"; "The Well of Constant Despair"; and we are pleased to learn that the Author's next book, "Don Luis", is soon to be published.
